Lower Hall.

Mrs. W. H. Toner of Portsmouth, N. H., sells the Portsmouth specialties of L. Preston's make. The first is the lavender salts that are sold for people traveling.

The others are a brand of superior cologne, Dysentery Elixir and Tobin's Family Liniment. She has a pretty stand and attracts lots of attention.

Noyes' Toothache Remedy is another thing that they sell, and a neat bottle of tooth powder completes the list.

John M. Williams of Readfield is in the jewelry business near the entrance of lower hall. Pins and bangles of gold and silver, rings, brooches, glove buttons and wire work. Several samples of medal work are shown, and brooches are while you wait, and do it prettily too.

This is the firm for whom the late Asa D. True of Norway used to work at selling name and initial pins.

Dana B. Grant of Locke's Mills fits your eyes with spectacles in all styles and shapes.

V. P. DeCoster of Buckfield shows a beautiful lot of combing in a neat case and surrounded by bouquets of asters. The honey is of four distinct kinds and is labeled "clover, basswood, buckwheat, goldenrod."

Dairy implements, A. L. & E. F. Goss Co. of Lewiston make the display and H. A. Goss is in charge. An eight-ounce Goss's Creamer is at the head.

There are three others, the Davis, the Stoddard revolving and Blanchard which is equipped with revolving paddles. The Babcock milk test will be shown in operation, and will be the official test of quality of milk given by visitors on the grounds. Two patterns of butter workers, hand butter workers, butter stamps, firkins and packing cases of all kinds are to be seen with the rest. But the pride of it all are two sizes of the United States Separator. You pour the milk in the top and it comes out of one spout pure rich cream and out of the other the bluest of skim milk. This is a practical machine and has already displaced the old skimming process in up-to-date dairy establishments.

The big long show case for domestic cookery, etc., is well filled. Mrs. Frank Noble of Norway has a notable display in this line. A nice roast chicken is in the center. Surrounding it are some neat rolls, nice fat doughnuts, layer cake, chocolate, ornamental cake, marble cake, cream cakes, nut cake, fruit cake, ribbon cake with frosting and nuts on top, molasses and sugar cookies, sugared doughnuts, nuts, cranberry jelly, blueberry pie and some little cucumber pickles. In a separate exhibit, Mrs. Noble has some brown bread, loaf white bread and angel cake. Wholesome looking food and enough of it so that the committee's work of sampling will amount to a pretty good meal.

Edna Richardson of Greenwood, aged 12 years, has a loaf each of white bread and brown bread; superior looking articles.

V. P. DeCoster, Buckfield, white plum cake that grew taller than a barrel, good healthy stalks.

Summer Tucker, South Paris, patent frame for drying clothes; can be adjusted to suit your convenience.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, 7 varieties of potatoes: Early Rose, Beauty of Hebron, Canada Red, Early New York, Little Gem and two without names, all good size and free from scabs or other imperfections.

J. H. Neal of Norway discusses on the merits of the Singer sewing machine and gives practical illustrations of its working. He has several patterns but the glory of them all is the high arm machine with drop works. You can let the works down through the table and cover them up when not in use.

O. A. Chase shows the Improved New Leader Washer, and works it on the grounds. It works by a vibrating motion and the go does not rubbing what ever. Heat is obtained from an oil lamp.

F. A. Young, West Paris, two squashes with his name grown in the skin. One is a Mammoth, big enough for a good lift; the other a beautiful orange Boston Market.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, long trace of full ears of eight-rowed yellow field corn.

John Martin, Paris, remarkably long ears of yellow field corn.

Lemuel Gurney, Hebron, has a small exhibit of maple sugar and syrup. The syrup is so heavy that there is some crystallization of sugar at the bottom of the can. That same syrup is so clear that we could look through the canful and read the ADVERTISER held back of it. He has two pint cans of that and cakes of sugar made from it. It has beautiful grain and is clear and light in color. The syrup was awarded first premium on maple sugar at State Fair, Upper Hall.

Bartlett, the Cottage Street Norway photographer, has a frame of views, all familiar scenes. "They look just as natural as life," said one elderly gentleman, after looking them over. There were Pennesseewassee Lake scenes, cottagers enjoying their outing, the Oxford Bicycle Club, Norway village from near the depot, the County buildings, etc.

Mrs. G. W. Hazen of Norway exhibits four very dainty water colors—a southern scene, windmill, country road and trees on the shore of a pond.

Sturtevant of Fryburg has two oil paintings of a horse in a stable, one a blanket in one is the name "Transit."

There are three water colors of a cow, a country house, and flower-de-lis, and two oil panel pictures of deer, also an overturned basket of grapes.

Blanche Richards has a plaque with "the sweetest little girl's head" in oil. She also has an oil in black and white—a girl walking and wintry surroundings, and two water colors—clover, and a bit of seashore.

A. Arthur Jackman has a fan or screen which is whittled with a knife from wood. We doubt if job himself would have had the patience to have made it. This is one of the real curiosities.

The case of stuffed birds are very lifelike, the poor little wounded one makes one shudder to look at it.

There is much fine needle work and fancy articles of many kinds; also knit goods and yarn.

L. S. Stone of Paris, mineralogist, has a case of minerals, gems, etc.

The Excelsior Frame Co., of South Paris have a case showing about one hundred different styles of moldings.

There is no lack of fruit this year. The tables are just groaning beneath its weight. Great, smooth, luscious apples, pears, grapes, plums, peaches, everything that grows in our climate.

Rugs and quilts abound and they cover bare walls and add to the exhibit as nothing else could. They are beautiful, too, and well worthy to have a foremost place. There is one very showy quilt, a white ground on which are twenty-five bright red roses. There are quilts with thousands of pieces no two alike thing that grows in our climate.

The two Granges, Norway and South Paris, have surely done themselves proud this year. The space each occupies is large.

the same on opposite sides of the hall. In the center of the Paris exhibit is the fruit arranged, and above it on the wall in red apples in a circle on white. "By their fruits ye shall know them." Under this is the banner of Paris Grange No. 44, a large tablet of fruit. "Paris Grange" in ground. The space is divided into four departments:—Antique, fruit, vegetables and canned goods. Quills, affigures and plants, flowers and fancy articles are arranged where they will look the best. Fine cooking. The pulvers are festooned with grains, roots, vegetables, evergreens and flowers, and asparagus is freely used.
"Norway" in white everlasting flowers is over an arch of green with red berries at the entrance to Norway Grange. Over the inside entrance on the opposite side is "Norway Grange" in red apples on a cedar back. Red, white and blue, festooned with strings of small red crab apples. A great many yards of these are used. Quills, rings, etc., cover the walls, which are also hung with pictures and fancy articles. Fruits and vegetables are in the center. There is a pyramid of canned fruits of the most beautiful colors, whose glass sides glistens. Butters, cheese, grains, roots, vegetables, etc., mingle in a harmonious whole, and amid all this the two little gray squirrels of Water Table gaze from their little house on the passing crowd.
The bell of corn with a pumpkin tongue has many admirers. Among the quilts we notice a red and black one, a silk one, the silk arranged in fan forms, a very dark silk one with a broad cream lace border, and quantities of beveling, crazy ones of the brightest of silk pieces, beautifully embroidered and painted.

The Man at the Front.

Of all the opticians in a certain locality some of them must be in front—must be the best. One of them gets the name for accuracy, safety and success. "People learn by experience and learn that if they go to him to have their eyes examined and fitted with glasses there will be no 'guess work' about it. They know the work will be done effectively and at moderate cost. Extreme care, long experience and accurate knowledge have made my work popular with particular people. Everybody ought to be particular when they start out to have their eyes attended to.
